burn, the Ladies' Doubles—With Alan Harvie Is Defeated in Final of the Mixed Doubles— Edmontonians Shown Good Time

[illegible][illegible]

NEW YORK, Mar. 2.—Johnny Dugan and Pat Moran were matched yesterday to fight 15 rounds to a decision on the main card of the Cusack-March 24. A title will be signed March 24 and $1,000 forfeits posted to make 15 rounds. Under the world's featherweight and junior middleweight titles, the main title will be at stake in the Moran fight.

The big dramatic punch in the tournament is the Marathon race. Twice the event has been won by United States runners, and once each by Greece, Hungary, Czechoslovakia and Finland. America is the only nation which has won the event twice.

The United States winners were Dickie at St. Louis in 2 hours 28

ance on record; and Hares, at London, in 2 hours 36 minutes and 15 seconds.

It was won last by Kolehmainen, Finnish runner, at Agder in 2 hours 15 minutes and 35 1/2 seconds, fastest time on record.

Jack Taylor Will Appear In Wrestling Match With E. Arthur and Van Warden

Canadian Champion in Best of Condition—Will Attempt to Throw Each Opponent Twice in Seventy-five Minutes—Good Preliminaries Arranged

Tonight Edmonton wrestling fans will witness a great sportsman's event as Jack Taylor, champion heavyweight wrestler of Canada, will appear at the Temple Theatre. He arrived in the city last night and is in the best of health and condition.

On his arrival Taylor told The Bulletin that he had never felt better in his life, and that he had never been in better form. It was the first time The Bulletin reporter had seen him, but he certainly couldn't imagine him looking in any better condition. Taylor looked clean-cut and in a well-informed manner about everything connected with wrestling, both in terms and international conditions.

He and Van Warden, who produced a wife from New York last night, are in the best of health and condition.

SPORT IS MY SUBJECT (By DRAGON WHITE)

Here is a page from the editorial early life of Jack Taylor, now undisputed wrestling champion of Canada in the heavy-weight division, who is going to show his wares to the Edmonton public tonight at the Temple Theatre.

Jack Taylor's early life did not run as quiet as the proverbial broom. Endowed by nature with a marvelous physique and attractive personality, he set out on what looked like a primrose path of life. As a member of the Lethbridge police force he had a high old time.

In almost nothing flat he paid the inevitable consequences. He was canned from the police force, and down and out before he was twenty-four years of age. And he had not met up with a certain Good Samaritan at this time there would be no occasion for relating the following incident:

"Say, Charlie, there is a man on the hind end of this train, trying to beat a ride," said the brakeman to Charlie Yeandle, conductor of the train running from Lethbridge to Cranbrook.

"Well, why don't you put him off?" said Yeandle. "I wouldn't tackle that egg alone for a thousand dollars," said the brakeman. "He is built like Milo, or whoever it was that held the wrestling championship of the ancient world for forty years."

"Well, wait a minute and I will go and help you," said Yeandle.

So in a few minutes the two slipped down to the back end of the train to take a look at the passenger who was beating his way, and size up the best way to handle him in putting him off.

"Why, that is Jack Taylor of the Lethbridge police force," said Yeandle. And rushing out on the platform he shook him and said, "Hello, Jack, come inside and tell us what's the trouble."

They kindly helped him inside and placed him in a seat.

"Lost my job," said Taylor, "and I'm broke." "Can't pay my bills, but I want to stay in the city," said Taylor. "That's all right," said Charlie, "I'll pay your fare to Cranbrook, and here's a five spot. Pay me back when you can."

Two weeks later Charlie Yeandle, well-known railroad man and horseman of this city, at one time owner of that sterling racehorse, Conflagration, met Taylor in Cranbrook. "Here's your five," said Taylor, "and you can tell the world that I am settled down for life." "I am going in for wrestling, and you are going to hear from me again," said Taylor.

And step by step Jack Taylor won his way to the crown of undisputed champion heavyweight wrestler of Canada. But greater yet has been his victory over self. No two out of three falls were any good in this match. Taylor had to win them all, and he did.

Today Jack Taylor is not only the foremost heavyweight wrestler in Canada, but he is only one man that stands between him and the world's championship. That is Ed Lewis, the stranger. When Taylor beat Wladek Zybysko in Winnipeg he demonstrated his fitness and right to challenge Lewis for world's honors.

It was my privilege to see this same Wladek Zybysko at the Coliseum in Chicago five years ago this spring in a match bout with Stringer Lewis that was to have been two and five falls, but it took more than two hours for a single fall, then one fall would decide the winner.

The Coliseum was packed. Wrestling goes good in Chicago. For over two hours these giants wrestled without a fall. Lewis clamped one headlock after another on the huge Pole, but Zybysko took them all, some of them lasting for ten minutes. It looked as though the Stranger would eventually win, for the headlock never began to roll. But the Pole broke out of them and rushed at Lewis like a bull. Finally after a headlock that must have lasted for fifteen minutes, the Pole broke out. He appeared weak. Lewis sprang for another headlock; he missed, and the Pole came up, and unexpectedly, too, secured a hold and pinned the stranger's shoulders to the mat.

Lewis later beat Wladek, but he certainly beat a tough one, and I think Jack Taylor can defeat this Pole he should be in line for a match with Lewis.

Colonel Holles, soldier and adventurer, returns to England, his native land, when war with Ireland is declared. It is dangerous for Holles to accept a commission in the English army, because the name of his father, John Holles, father of the colonel, is the name of the traitor who was executed for his part in the rebellion of 1641.

The English public is agitated and ready in London. A friend of the colonel, who is a member of the government, has been arrested. Holles is a member of the government, and a warrant is out for his arrest.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

This Little World of Our Children

By HAROLD MATSON

Somewhere back in 1914, or thereabouts, told the children of this city that "a straight line is one of the most beautiful things in the world."

Radial streets, showing in all directions from the center of the city, are a good example of a straight line.

There is a circle, nearly as big as a football field. The street winds its way around it, and the children of this city are a good example of a circle.

Every child seems to reach the United States some place along its coast, and the children of this city are a good example of a coast.

Quebec Ice Bridge; Mounts Ladder to Play; Has Animal Actors

All women, it is said, look with eyes of adoration upon Mme. Madeleine Vionnet, famous French dressmaker, who revolutionized her art seventeen years ago when she made the first dress without lining. The great emancipator is now on this continent.

Photograph shows the ice bridge that formed on the St. Lawrence river between Quebec and Levis before it broke up recently with eight people marooned on the floes. All escaped safely after a thrilling experience.

Miss Louise Lawson, actress, member of a well-known Texan family, was found murdered in her New York apartment recently. She had been strangled, and to prevent an outcry a towel had been tied over her mouth. Few clues as to her assailant have been found.

Gorman of Canada and Jewtraw of United States are shown making the final turn in the 500-meter Olympic race at Chamonix, France. Gorman blames his loss to lack of training facilities.

Some splendid exhibitions of fancy skating were given by the Toronto skating club on the ice at Toronto University stadium recently. Photograph shows Mrs. Clifford Sifton in an unusual pose.

This fellow is not seen very often. A good thing he isn't, because it is difficult to make friends with him. The animal is a Chinese wildcat recently captured in that country.

The Prince of Wales sustained a broken collarbone recently while exercising one of his hunters near Ascot. This photograph shows the Prince at another time when his mount slipped into a water jump, but both escaped injuries.

Very Oriental-looking is this novel negligee worn by Mae Busch, movie star. It is of Persian crepe de chine. The hand-wound turban fits in with this 'far east' costume.

San Francisco puts its hands to its ears when Thelma Parker plays the saxophone. The vaudeville star has to mount a ladder to reach the mouthpiece of the 500-pound instrument, said to be the largest in captivity.

This huge 2-ton aerial bomb, said to be the largest in the world, has just been completed by the U.S. government. When dropped from a plane it can make a hole 150 feet wide.

When other members of the family are enjoying the sport of tobogganing it would be too bad to forget the baby of the house. This 'buttercup' was given an orchestra seat and took the ride alone.

Professor Eoin MacNeill, famous Irishman, is the minister of education in the new Irish free state, which is headed by President Cosgrave. His historical works are known the world over.

The first photograph of the Olympic hockey games at Chamonix, France, shows the American team in action around the net. The Americans won this game from the Belgian team by a score of 19-0.

Miss Ethel Lackie of Chicago, one of the country's leading mermaids, has just bettered her own sixty-foot pool mark of 1.05 by two-fifths of a second in a star meet recently.

Mrs. Frank J. Gould, fourth wife of Frank J. Gould, well-known American millionaire, is spending the winter at the Riviera, with her husband. Mrs. Gould was caught in a remarkable action photograph on the tennis courts.

Len Power, who directs animal comedies in the movies, regarded as the cleverest in their field, has just called his company of 'actors' together to go over the working script for a thrilling scene.

English lady hockey players easily defeated an American team on their own grounds recently. The ladies from overseas are shown in an attack on their opponents' goal.
